In the 1950s, more than 4,000 drives-in cinema dotted the American landscape. While less than 336 drives-in currently serve movies viewable from your car, there is still a public for this unique display experience. You will need a combination of careful planning and an investment in today's projection technology to provide entertainment on an external screen. According to the United Drive-in Theater Owners Association, you should look for a closed cinema to remodel. This is a way to reduce costs. Otherwise, creating a single drive-in theater screen can cost between $ 300,000 and $ 500,000 à € "and this does not include the earth. A 500 car theater requires at least 10 to 14 acres, and the Earth must then be carved to ensure that the screen is visible from each parking space. Look for soils that do not have many interference from the surrounding lights. Otherwise, you will need to create some kind of screen around the property to prevent the lights from hitting the display. Show old films requires a 35 mm cinematic projector along with a sound processor, large projector lamps and a tray system to manage the film. But if you want to show new or recently released movies, you need to invest in a high-definition digital projection system because the new releases are no longer distributed as a 35 mm film. It is also necessary to buy at least one screen, more if you expect to show different movies at the same time. You also need a transmitter so that cars can tune in in your specific frequency to feel the film in their vehicles. To save money, look for used equipment or consider buying a mobile inflatable screen à € "that you can rent companies and community groups for night events when you do not show film. A projection tower that is built quite high to project the film over the car ramps is a must. Set a concession stand, since you will make most of your night take from the good selling, rather than movie tickets. Equip The snack bar with a popcorn machine, a hot dog cooker and soft drink coolers, for beginners. If space and budget allow, install a grid to make sandwiches to increase profits. Find out which food permissions are required by your city or county to manage the concession stand. Get movies through a movie booker, who works on commission by treating film distributors to get their films in theaters. Plan to pay up to 90% of ticket sales to show new movies as soon as they are released. Once the movies have been out a few weeks, the fee starts to fall and will remain more than the ticket price. Show new releases can be difficult if you are near an internal theater, as these places are usually given the first opportunity to play the film as they can generate tickets during daytime hours, too. You can find second-run movies or more profitable classics, especially since the latter plays in the experience of movie drive-in nostalgic. As with any activity, it is necessary to investigate the status requirements for permits, licenses and taxes. Check with your city and status license cards to determine which type of business license and fiscal documents must be completed before the opening day. Before showing any kind of film, you need a public performance license with the study that has produced it - you can't just play a DVD or you could get hit for copyright infringement. Criterion, MPLC and Swank are among the main license agencies of the film; Ask an umbrella agreement that charges taxes based on Your cinema rather than the number of shows. Photo Courtesy: J. R. EYERMAN / LIFE MAGAZINE / THE LIFE PICTURE COLLECTION / GETTY IMAGES Tired of Netflix? You are not alone, but escaping the house still requires some caution due to the Covid-19 pandemic. Fortunately, some companies and individuals came with a creative idea to help people safely enjoy a night out: Cinema Drive-in. This is just à € œThe outdoor movie places are no longer a thing than the past. I'm a one answer to the problem à€ "at least for the near future, even theaters and concert venues reopen, drive-ins have a lot to offer people who feel crazy but also uncomfortable to ocire in public while the virus is still spreading, some drive-ins that have opened have even worked to upgrade the cinema experience by offering more than a chance to watch big movies, concerts and other ocites offer extra entertainment opportunities at select locations. These places serve as a refreshing reminder that social space should not be boring, and you can still dare with friends if you take the right approach, ready to say goodbye to your couch and greet the fun at the drive-in? here is a deeper aspect of how the drives-in fry during the pandemic, for some cinema lovers, the experience of the old-fashioned Drive-in would no longer cut it, even in desperate times, here is where the new experience of tick comes. Several revoked drive-in positions offer movies and views, which makes it harder to pass. For example, skyline Drive-in nyc provides customers with a film with the beautiful manhattan skyline in the background, is no skyline of nyc mondane, is a popular shooting place for famous companies like sml and converse. courtesy photo: skyline Drive-in nyc when it comes to food, some drive-in turn to fancy food trucks and culinary options on site that exceed the charm of popcorn and candies, at the lefty alley and eat, you can order the wontons crab or bruschetta as appetizer and switch to a starter and pass to an appetizer like chicken breast roasted chicken or crab cake sando à€ "all while enjoying a great movie, some aspects of the outdoor film experience are the same, but there are some subtle changes. Many drive-ins have modified the ticket purchase process, for example, requiring all tickets to be purchased online through the company's website or facebook page. However, you must be fast in many locations, tickets are in hot demand and sometimes they sell in a few minutes, a problem corporate owners still face for now is access to brand new movies, without the permission of film studios, drive-ins cannot show the latest films, but this situation has already begun to improve with the new films released the withdrawal at the end of August, older movies like jurassic park, grease dancing and dirt have done well in Drive-in through the summer, so we can see a mix of new, old and recent movies as rich Asian madmen and mary poppins returns to play Drive-Ins go on, for those who love music, but are a bit of social media from live concerts, companies have found an innovative solution to your problem: Drive-in concerts. Germania began the trend hosting some rare drive-in concerts with all the works à€ "dj shows, laser, smoke, special effects and dancers (wearing masks, of course,) Although people are not left ocidated by their cars to dance and socialize, they can celebrate within them and even clacson to music, courtesy photo: Hauke-Christian ditlich / picture alliance / getty images in the United States, many musical artists jumped on the wheelchair and hosted small shows of drive-in, one of the most popular stars to jump on this trend is the urban keith campaign singer, who surprised the fans of the tennessee with a spontaneous concert of Drive-in May, this is not all à€ "the singer dedicated the show to medical workers in the front line. In addition to requesting online ticket sales, the owners of companies have implemented other security and social space measures to ensure that everyone has the entertainment safely, the mostdrive-in has the same set of regulations, such as customers to stay in their cars, except to use the bathroom. If you leave your car, you have to wear a face mask, and each car has to be parked from 10 to 20 feet from the next car. Some locations take off car machines, so everyone can easily view the movie screen or performance. Besides, only a number of people areIn the bathroom once. Of course, you can expect some problems that don't want to follow the new rules, but you can also wait for those customers to be hunted. Photo of courtesy: Dsril Roszandi / Nurphoto / Getty Images If you are asking you for food and drink, many places are trying to keep the experience without contact by encouraging customers to bring their own snacks and drinks to give both clients and peace workers During the pandemics. However, those who want snacks in some locations can order online items for non-contact car or pick up delivery. For example, Miami Carflix Cinema Food Trucks provide food to customer vehicles while watching outdoor movies. Houston Club's roof cinema allows customers to pre-order food and beverages online for on-site pickup. Thanks to the drives-in, people have the possibility of leaving their homes and have fun together (while still separate) during these difficult moments. How is it for some magic of the movie?
