chose such young attorneys over her. A bachelor, Jeff has been spending his days sitting in a wheelchair, watching his neighbors through the rear window of his two-room apartment. Scottie meets with Elster at his office near the waterfront, where Elster oversees a shipbuilding business. Joe has a job as a dancing partner to Olga Strassoff at Lorch's establishment. When the vessel breaks into two, Jack and Rose are plunged into the ocean. [An intermission divides the story at this point.] Soon Ilderim goes to Messala's home, offers a wager of a trunk filled with gold and silver and asks him and his companions for odds on an upcoming chariot race. He later returns to Deborah's room in the hospital and is deeply affected by her misfortune. Ray laments that he left home at seventeen after telling his father he could never respect a man who idolized a criminal like Shoeless Joe. Trapped inside the mine by a water creature known as "The Watcher," the group passes through the labyrinths of the mines, pursued by Gollum, Goblins and a Cave Troll. Returning to the control room, she opens the hatch, spears the organism, and it is jettisoned into space. Arrius then takes Judah's arm, and leads him off, past the rowers' hole. Moments later, the T-1000 emerges from the flames unharmed, re-forming into human shape. Klaatu explains that because Earth's people are reaching a technological level at which they could be a danger to other planets, he has been sent to warn them of the consequences of their violence. In Little Italy, in 1923, Vito is now known as "Don Vito," and with his old friend Genco, he has started the Genco Olive Oil Company, which imports oil from Sicily. He then goes to Laura's apartment and announces that her gun was not the one used in the murder. During her testimony in court, Joanna recounts that she lost her self-esteem as a stay-at-home mother, but has worked hard to "become a whole person again" and believes her son needs her more than his father. Believing the noise to be coming from the dog, Harvey, the boy tosses a baseball inside the shed, but the ball is thrown back to him. He points them in the direction of the nearest town, where they walk to find food. Later, Phil drinks beer with Gus and Ralph at a bowling alley. At Sebastian's apartment, Batty arrives, kisses Pris, and tells her that Zhora and Kowalski have been retired. Upon meeting him, they learned that Kobayashi was behind the police line-up which had brought them together in the first place. Using their mafia connections, the men enjoy a relatively comfortable lifestyle in prison, and Karen helps Henry by smuggling in drugs for him to sell. Mayhew fears that Leonard will soon be charged with the stabbing murder of Mrs. In time, Goeth is arrested at a sanitarium and hanged for war crimes. They follow a trail of broken branches left by Kong and soon stumble on a dinosaur, a horny-tailed stegosaurus, which they kill with gas bombs. Ray finds a young Shoeless Joe standing on his baseball field and greets him in disbelief. When Bishop Brophy offers him a $210,000 settlement, Frank rejects the money, realizing the immorality of collecting a paycheck without convicting the doctors responsible. Chumley rehires Sanderson, who have received orders to kill all the Jews at the factory, to return home as men instead of murderers. Along the way, Dorothy meets a friendly scarecrow who laments that he is failure because he has no brain, an emotional tin man, who longingly describes the romantic life he would lead if he only had a heart, and a seemingly ferocious lion who actually lacks courage. Desperate for something to eat, Scarlett first tries drinking whiskey then goes into the fields. When Messala suddenly appears at the courtyard entrance, Judah appeals to him, but Messala coldly watches as Judah, Tirzah and Miriam are taken away. Evelyn later identifies Hollis at the morgue and refutes Escobar's suggestion that her husband committed suicide, claiming that they were trying to work out their problems over his affair. During the reign of the emperor Tiberius, the Roman officer Messala arrives in Jerusalem as the new Tribune, head of the Roman garrison. The next day, Billy and Josh search the city for another Zoltar machine, to no avail. Later that day at the U. Scarlett is furious with him, even after he admits that he loves her and gives her a passionate kiss before leaving. For years he did not speak to his father, too ashamed to apologize, and the next time he saw him was at his funeral. Tom yows revenge and single-handedly takes on his rivals. Jim is understanding, but trusts that Ted's family problems will not interfere with his new responsibility as the lead person on the Mid-Atlantic Airlines account. In her London apartment, wealthy Margot Wendice discusses with her American ex-lover, Mark Halliday, why she changed her mind about leaving her husband Tony. Klaatu is impressed with the Lincoln Memorial, and when he asks Bobby who the greatest man alive is, the boy replies that famed scientist Jacob Barnhardt is the one Klaatu seeks. Small, squat alien creatures wander near the ship observing plants on Earth until their chests illuminate red. After putting Azaria to sleep in a basinet inside the children's tent, Lindy returns to Michael at the grill, several feet away from the tent. At the U.N., Roger requests to see Townsend, but is confused when the man he meets is not Vandamm. Rather than seeking forgiveness, as Messala dies, he taunts Judah by revealing that Tirzah and Miriam are not dead but living in the valley of the lepers. Wilson goes after him, leaving Kelly and Sanderson with Elwood. Christine then grabs the murder knife still lying on the table and plunges it into Leonard. After tricking the men, Miles injects them with sedatives, then flees with Becky. Miller and his men continue to Ramelle, where they find Private Ryan making preparations for an impending attack on the bridge he's been defending. After the Replicant, Zhora, performs with a snake on Lewis's stage, Deckard approaches her dressing room disguised as a union representative. Stunned, Michael immediately calls Sonny, who relates that their father is barely alive in the hospital and insists that Michael return to the safety of the family's Long Beach compound. Back at the Williams house, Dorothy calls Jeffrey her "secret lover," and tells Sandy that he "put his disease in me." Sandy is grief-stricken, and sobs in her mother's arms. The only person equipped to retrieve the data is her Jedi father, so the droid must be escorted to Alderaan immediately. In the winter of 1942, Krakow Jews struggle to withstand the demoralizing conditions of the ghetto. The conversation leads Jeffrey to believe that Frank has aligned himself with Dorothy's estranged husband, Don, and has kidnapped their young son, Little Donny. Later, at work, Jim O'Connor notifies Ted that he is being dismissed from the agency because the Mid-Atlantic Airlines executives are not pleased with the campaign. After celebrating with relatives, who admire the prosperous family, Vito accompanies Tommasino to now elderly Don Ciccio's estate. They also find Becky's double missing. He confesses that Sandy is one such "mystery," and kisses her, but she begs him to respect her innocence. Looking out a window, he sees a different day. Tony tells his friend that they need money and power before American women will take an interest in them. Soon after, Clemenza, a neighbor across the alley, throws a package to Vito and asks him to hide it. Covered in blood, he finds Elvira in the bedroom and tells her to pack her things and join him. That night, Doris and Susan write Kris a note to cheer him up. In the livery stable, Madeleine describes having lived at the mission, as if recalling Carlotta's memories of her youth, and Scottie tries to reason with her, showing her things that she might have once seen and become confused about. Perplexed, Roger is about to show Townsend the newspaper photo he found in Kaplan's room when Townsend is struck in the back by a knife hurled by Valerian, who then escapes. That evening at home, Billy complains about his dinner and defies his father by eating ice cream instead. Pushing the ark into the Nile, Yochabel instructs Miriam to follow it, and the girl watches as it is found by Bithiah, the pharaoh's daughter. While pretending to fix Verna's radio, he rigs up a signal that will locate the truck for the agents and then leaves a message on a gas station washroom mirror. In agreement, Judge Hoyle instructs the jury to entirely disregard her testimony, but Bishop Brophy worries that the jurors may still believe her story. Over the next few years, the alleged blood pattern underneath the dashboard of the Chamberlains' car is found in several similar models, and Azaria's matinee jacket is discovered near Ayers Rock. While arguing over whether or not to take Sollozzo's deal, they receive a package of a dead fish, a Sicilian symbol that Luca "sleeps with the fishes." Now the hot-headed Sonny insists that there will be a war between the Corleones and the Tattaglias. Atlanta is now suffering the privation of a long siege, but the women manage to give Ashley a small Christmas feast Michael is accepted into a masters program at Avondale College and the family moves to a new home near the campus. After robbing a gas station, Enrico Cesare Bandello, known as Rico, leaves his small town for the city with his friend Joe Massaro. Thankful for his life, Marsellus agrees to let Butch go but swears him to secrecy over the assault.
Having witnessed the rescue, Mark changes his mind and agrees that Ray should keep the farm. He then takes Becky home, where he checks out an unsettling noise caused by her father working in the basement. They called an ambulance, but were arrested on suspicion of murder. Schindler again reprimands Itzhak Stern for his charitable hiring practices. When Stern warns Schindler that the company's new artillery shells are failing tests, the satisfied Schindler vows never to produce working artillery. The police apprehend Thorwald, who confesses that he deposited most of his wife's body in the East River, except for her head, which he first buried in the garden and then packed in a hatbox Although Scottie is reluctant to become involved, Elster convinces him that he needs a friend to observe Madeleine before he commits her to a mental institution. After Tony kills the last of the big gang leaders, he goes to the Paradise Club, where he sees his sister Cesca dancing with a man. Elliott loudly weeps to distract the doctors from noticing that E.T. is still alive, and later Mike steals a medical van, with Elliott and E.T. hiding in back. The patrolmen report Roger's seizure and are instructed to take him to the airport where he is met by the Professor, who explains about the fictitious Kaplan and the need to capture Vandamm with incriminating evidence before he departs the country from his ranch in South Dakota. Roger evades the conductors after the train gets underway, then visits the dining car where he is seated with Eve. Michael then goes to Fredo and embraces his sobbing brother, but with his eyes, lets his underling Rocco Lampone know that his feelings have not changed. However, just after Ray drops him off, Mann blocks the car and reveals that he also saw the message about Graham. Esther then shows him that Miriam and Esther have been cured and the four lovingly embrace. The couple is also faulted for giving so many interviews, but Lindy insists she simply wants to counter the untruths floating around. He steps in front of a speeding truck, wakes up, and jumps off a building. Just then, several police cars appear, and the abusive Capt. At a park, Dorothy embraces her young son. Harry shoots and kills a British soldier, Sgt. After Scottie departs, however, Judy begins to pack, then writes a letter to Scottie, confessing that Elster concocted a scheme to kill his wife and make Scottie a dupe to cover his crime.
Upset that Susan left the party with Josh, Paul takes Josh to play racquetball the next day with the intention of humiliating him on the court. As the others make camp, Boromir accosts Frodo in the woods. One night, after stopping at the Korova Milk Bar for the house specialty, drug-laced milk that induces "ultra violence," the group kicks an elderly

In a futuristic outer space, the commercial towing ship The Nostromo is returning home to Earth with twenty million tons of mineral ore. The boys ride their bicycles through the neighborhood with E.T. perched in Elliott's basket, lifting them into the air to evade the police. He asks if she loves and trusts him, and she responds that she does. He sets up a robbery deal for them, promising to get them out of trouble if anything goes wrong, but when they bungle the job he abandons them. Meanwhile, Big Ed takes advantage of Cody's absence to take over the gang. After Scarlett calls Rhett a drunken fool, he grabs her and carries her upstairs, angrily telling her that this night there will not be "three in a bed." The next morning, Scarlett is happy, but when Rhett scoffs that his behavior was merely an indiscretion, her happiness turns to anger. As Concannon rigorously coaches his witnesses, Frank hastily finds an alternate anesthesiologist named Dr. Lionel Thompson, and Deborah's obstinate obstetrics nurse, Maureen Rooney. The robbery had been planned by Dick when a former inmate told him that Mr. Clutter kept $10,000 in a safe in his home. Copying the gimmick of the Trojan Horse, Cody plans to rob a payroll by sneaking the gang into a company inside an oil tanker. After Miles offers to see Wilma, he and Becky chat and discover that they have both recently divorced. Alex is then injected with a serum that causes him to feel waves of excruciating nausea and suffocation, which he names the "sickness," when his violent passions arise. After Michael tells Fredo that Roth and his underling, Johnny Ola, are in Havana, Fredo denies having met them. As Scottie presses her about why she jumped into the bay, and about "where" and "when" she currently is, Madeleine relates that she feels like she is walking down a long corridor, covered with mirrored fragments that reflect a life not her own, yet familiar. When George finally makes Clarence show him Mary, he discovers that she is a lonely, unmarried librarian. Remaining optimistic, Galloway encourages him to subpoena Col. Joshua is condemned to death for attempting to save her, and Lilia then races through the crowd to find Moses and plead for his mercy. Back at the office, Susan nurses Josh's cuts. The Professor allows Eve to return to Vandamm and places the angered Roger in when she is unable to enter using the key in her handbag. The defiant Rolfe sneers that in five years the convicted men will be free. That evening, John calls the Voights to warn them about the T-1000, but when Janelle answers the phone, he senses that she seems different. Even though he is fascinated by her dangerous beauty, Sam turns Brigid in for the murder of his partner. When a helicopter passes, the T-1000 drives out the window, grabs onto the aircraft, and commandeers it. Later, Tony arrives, but has no key to get in. Because Paul had been on a fishing trip at the time of the murder, Parnell tells him about the case. That night, Dr. Thompson rehearses his answers for the courtroom but his inexperience and unfamiliarity with medical terms destroys Frank's confidence. At the last minute, he makes a dash for freedom, but is gunned down by the police and dies under the Cook's Tours sign. After Jack leaves, government agents notify Louise of a warrant for his arrest on sedition charges. After hitting a homerun, Shoeless Joe comments about how much he misses baseball. Sebastian and convinces him to invite her inside. Back at the sanitarium, Wilson, Sanderson and Kelly all hurry to Charlie's to look for him. While Kong saves Ann from the jaws of an allosaurus Jack and Denham, the last two crew survivors, reunite. Cotton only pretends to do the deed, however, and leaves a pack of cigarettes behind with his friend. In time, Ted and Billy settle into their new routine without Joanna, but Ted's work suffers. Later, Bryant and Deckard watch video footage of Kowalski, and Bryant explains that the suspected Replicants recently escaped from an off-world colony - three male and three female. Holly calls on Anna after a performance, and she tells him that Harry's personal physician, Dr. Winkel, happened to show up at the scene of the accident, and that the man behind the wheel of the car was actually Harry's driver. Alex happily creates violent dialogue for his characters, thus proving his "recovery." Soon after, the Minister of Interior visits Alex with an offer, Schindler goes to Auschwitz and uses diamonds to negotiate their release. After leaving Anna's apartment, Holly notices a man standing in the shadows and dares him to reveal himself. One afternoon, Don Vito warns Michael about Barzini and predicts that the person who suggests a meeting with Barzini will be a traitor setting Michael up to be killed. As Veta is planning a party that day to launch Myrtle Mae into society, she is determined to keep her peculiar and chronically inebriated brother away from the house and, to that end, telephones her friend, Judge Omar Gaffney. After a month at the camp, Tony's friend Manny Ray says that he's found them a job that will earn them green cards and get them out of Freedom Town. After sharing another passionate kiss with Scottie, Madeleine runs off, crying that although she loves him, there is something she must do, and that it is too late for them. Just then, at a nearby table, Pumpkin and Honey Bunny announce they are robbing the place. He notices movement inside an egg, but while observing, an organism attaches itself to the front of his helmet, leaving him unconscious. When Tony sees Gina, wearing only a robe, he shoots and kills Manny. When passers-by stop to gape at the scene, Roger steals a pickup and drives back to Kaplan's Chicago hotel. When Aunt Pitty leaves for Charleston, Scarlett desperately wants to go with her, but remembers her promise to Ashley, and remains with Melanie. When Frodo recuperates, he is reunited with both Gandalf, who escaped Saruman's imprisonment, and Bilbo, whose body has aged without the ring's magic. Thorwald. Back inside, Tony holds Gina's body, pretending she is not dead, as hired killers infiltrate his mansion. They are welcomed by Vito's old friend and now business partner in Genco Olive Oil, Don Tommasino. The next morning, the two men are alone in the sea, with no ships in sight. Karen asks what Henry does for a living, and he tells her he works for a construction union.
