A full backup using the backup database is not the same as a level 0 backup. If backup optimization is enabled, it only backs up logs that have not yet been backed up. Format the cell The Format clause allows backup files to be directed to a specific location. - The LV column of the backup version of the list A© null ³ a full backup. For example: run {allocate ch11 channel type disk maxpiecesize 10g; Backup Format '/ U03 / APP / Oracle / Test /% d_d_% t_% u_s% s_p% p' Database Current ControlFile Format '/ U03 / App / Oracle / Test /% d_c_% t_% u' spfile format '/ u03 /% app / oracle / test /% d_s_% t_% u 'plus arcivelog format' / u03 / app / oracle / test /% d_a_% t_% u_s% s% s_p% p '; Release channel CH11; } ControlFile Backups The current ControlFile can be automatically backed up by the backup command by configuring the Auto-Backup ControlFile peers to back up the current ControlFile use explicitly: RMAN> Control Backup Control; SPFile Backups SPFile can be made automatically with the control file during database backups by configuring the AutoBackup ControlFile peers to back up the SPFile, use explicitly: RMAN> SpFile Backup; Data backups to back up a data file from a specific data file. For example: Backup format '/ backup2 / test / test_df_% t_s% s_p% p' database; In the Example above, %T T© the backup set timestamp, %s The number of the backup set and %p The number of the backup set size. Incremental backups by default backups are not full (Level 0). For example: rman> backup as copy datafile '/u01/app/oradata/test/users01.dbf' format '/u01/app/oracle/copy/Users01.dbf'; Recovery to back up the use of the Recovery Area: RMAN> Backup recovery for target '/ u02 / app / oracle'; Note that a target be specified if the recovery area is being backed up to disk. RMAN backups are performed using the backup declaration to perform a full use of database backup: RMM> Backup database; To backup all archive records: RMAN> Archivelog Backup all; To To To the database and all archive log files use: RMAN> BACKUP DATABASE PLUS ARCHIVELOG; Note that the PLUS ARCHIVELOG clause performs the following: Executes the ALTER SYSTEM ARCHIVE LOG CURRENT command Executes the BACKUP ARCHIVELOG ALL command. For example: SQL> SELECT file#, FROM name v$datafile; Tablespace Backups To back up a tablespace, use the BACKUP TABLESPACE command. Incremental backups can be: Differential - includes all changes µes since last full or incremental Cumulative backup - includes all changes µ since last full backup Differential backups require less space. Backups can also be incremental (Level 1). To back up level 0, use RMAN> BACKUP INCREMENTAL LEVEL 0 DATABASE; To create an image ³ of an entire database, use: RMAN> BACKUP AS KHANPIA DATABASE; To create an image ³ of a specific data file, use: RMAN> BACKUP AS COPY DATAFILE For example: RMAN> BACKUP AS COPY DATAFILE 4 FORMAT '/u01/app/oracle/copy/users01.dbf'; Alternatively, specify the name of the source file. To perform a differential incremental backup, use: RMAN> NONVEL 1 INCREMENTAL DATABASE BACKUP; To perform a cumulative incremental backup, use: RMAN> INCREMENTAL 1 CUMULATIVE DATABASE BACKUP; Note that to make a Level 1 backup, a Level 0 backup must already exist. For example: RMAN> BACKUP DATA FILE '/u01/app/oradata/TEST/users01.dbf'; Alternatively, specify the data file number. For example: BACKUP DATABASE TAG = 'Backup_Full'; The A© tag reported by the LIST command. Cumulative backups are faster to restore differential backups are the default. The BACKUP command can be extended to back up the current control file and SPFILE. For example: RUN { ALLOCATE CHANNEL ch11 DISK TYPE MAXPIECESIZE 10G; DE BACKUP '/u03/app/oracle/TEST/%d_D_%T_%u_s%s_p%p' FORMATO DE BANCO DE DADOS PLUS ARCHIVELOG '/u03/app/oracle/TEST/%d_A_%T_%u_s%s_p%p'; CANAL DE LANÃAMENTO ch11; } Observe que a clÃ¡usula FORMAT precede a clÃ¡usula DATABASE, mas segue o PLUS ARCHIVELOG ARCHIVELOG For example: backup format '/ u01 / app / oracle / backup / %u' database; The instruction above created the following files in / u01 / app / oracle / backup: [Oracle @ vm3] $ ls -l / u01 / app / oracle / total backup 1161280 -rw-r ----- 1 oracle oinstall 117805060 14 06:31 15qebgs_1_1 -rw-r ----- 1 Oracle Oinstall 9928704 14 06:31 16qEIBD_1_1 Other formats can be specified. For example: RMAN> Backup table space users; Compressed backups to compress backup usage: rman > backup as compressed backupset database; The resulting compressed backup is about 20 % to 30 % of the size of the uncompressed equivalent. Backs Up Files specified in the Backup command Executes the file system's log chain command of change file of any remaining archived logs, including those generated during the backup of a format, can be specified for each subclause in the Backup Database Plus Archivelog command. For example: RMAN > Backup DataFile 4; The data file number can be obtained from the V$ DataFile. Tags A backup tag can optionally be specified with the backup command. If a tag is not specified, a system-generated tag will be assigned. awarded.
