Devon Delfino/Business Insider Relative cover from how to do everything: Tech: You can create a Discord server for a business, community, or a small group of friends. Send invitations to get friends and fans on your Discord server, or create a custom invitation link that will last indefinitely. How to Invite someone to a Discord Server If the server was set to the public, you can invite anyone to the server by right-clicking the server icon to the left. Select "Invite People". In this menu, you can scroll a list of your friends and click the "Invite" button next to each name. You can also press the "Copy" button to copy a link to the clipboard and send it to anyone. This invitation link will expire in 24 hours by default. Anyone who gives the link to will be able to create an account and join the server, even if they do not already use Discord. How to Customize an Invite Discord You can change the expiration date and set a maximum numberuse for an invitation link Discord. To customize this invitation link, from the Invite menu shown above, click "Edit Invite Link." In this Server Call Link Settings menu, open the first drop-down menu to choose how long the connection will last. You can set various ranges from 30 30forever. Use the second drop-down menu to set how many people can use the link before its deadline. You can limit this setting from a person to no limit. Finally, click on the "Grant Temporary Membership" option to make you discord throw out the accounts from the server once you get out. Customizing these settings makes it much easier to invite exactly who you want to invite. You can set a safe discord server using these settings if you want to keep the private channel. Nicole Grzybowski, Schuyler Hughes, Nolan Soper, Justin Zanderun Group project for Eng 249: Technical CommunicationSatillinois State UniversityComputer Internet access E-mail AccountDiscord is an online chat room, where vocal chat and text chat is possible. People around the world use discord to communicate with others on common interests, or just to form a group chat with friends. You can join the servers open to talk to people or you can create your server and have the server between friends or open so that anyone can join. The instructions we have provided will help you familiarize yourself with Discord. To start, open the web browser of your choice. For this example, Google Chrome was used. Use the search bar at the top of the browser and type the following address: , and then press «Enter.â €™ The other option is to use your favorite search engine and search for "Discord" or simply click on the link. Now you will be the DISCORD homepage. At this point you have the opportunity to download the program directly to your computer. The other option is to use discord strictly in the browser. These options only cover the web client method for the use of discord. If you want to download the software directly to your computer, you will need to search for instructions for these steps elsewhere. Click on the "Sign in" button in the upper right corner of the screen to access discord. You will be asked to enter an existing email address , a username and password for your account. Unlike most services, your username must not be unique. After completing these fields, click on the big purple button "Continue". If you already have a discord account you may need to check your identity. In this case, DISCORD will send you an e-mail with the instructions to try your identity. The next step that requires a discord is that you show yourself to be a real human being and not a computer that creates false accounts. Discord will take to complete a CAPTCHA 'verification by selecting various images that " CAPTCHA' is looking for, such as papers with sidewalks, or images with traffic lights, or other similar tests. Now you have successfully created an account with discord. Now you can explore all the features and discord tools have from To start the procedure to create or join a server click on the green mark «+» Located in the area at the top left of the page.Discord you will introduce you the options for "Create a one and to "join a server." It will go beyond the steps to create a server first, so if you just want to join an existing server scroll down in step 16. To create a server, click the purple button "Create Server." You are now ready To immerse yourself in the exciting world of creating your discordant server! Discord offers many options for you to customize your server however you like. First and most importantly, name your server. Be creative! Have fun with it People might be more interested in joining your server if they think it's interesting! A fun and creative name is a good place to start.Determining a name for your server is the only element required at this point. Other options at this stage are to add a profile picture and select the location of your server. The profile image is not required, but it can be another fun way to make the server stand out. If you don't want to add a discord to the image it will provide a generic one like the one shown in the example above. The last choice to make is for the location of your server. Discord provides a suggestion for the best server based on your location, so it is advisable that you go with their suggestion. You have the option to change it if you wish, but it is better to use the suggested Discord server. You have been executed with these options, click "Create." Now that you have entered the basic specifications for your server, the discord will show a popup window with the URL or web address that was assigned to the server assigned to the server. You can copy the link and share it with other people so they can join your server. Now that the basics have been completed, it's time to customize it with the options you want to include and also to start browsing. The 4 main features highlighted in the image above include 1) text chat, located at the top left of the screen. 2) Voice chat, located just below the text chat. 3) At the top right is the option to display a list of server members and 4) the text bar, at the bottom of the screen is the place where you type your messages to send. Discord automatically adds 1 voice channel and 1 text channel to the server. They both creatively name "Generals." If you want to add an additional voice or a text channel, click + to the right of the voice or text channel headers. A pop-up window will appear allowing you to add additional text or voice channel. In the channel area there are also options to add people to channels and also to modify existing channels. To change them, click "Gear" next to the channel name. Within the settings are many options that you can use to customize communication channels. Feel free to explore these options to see himself everything you can do! The other thing you can do in the options is reinomo you know the channel. This is where you can change 'general' to something that is not so boring. Now it's time to share your work with others. Invite friends to join your server. To do this, click on the name of server and then click Invite in the drop-down box that is displayed. A window will open to copy the web address of your server that you can share with others.You have completed all the steps needed to create your Discord server. Have fun with it!If you want, now would be a good time to join someone else's server so you can also see their hard work.To join an existing server you need the address of that server. Click the green '+' button on the main screen and select merge instead of creating this time. Enter the address of the server you want to join and click on the green button "Sign Up".We hope you enjoyed these instructions and have achieved all your goals to create or join a Discord server. These instructions were created as a group project for a Technical Communication course at the Illinois State University in Normal Il. We'd love to hear from you.
